“Old Fogies & Young Whippersnappers” presented by Timothy Van Egmond

Van Egmond’s “Young Fogies & Old Whippersnappers” program will celebrate the special connections between generations in families and communities. His songs and tales will range from the rib-tickling to the spine-tingling to the heart-warming. Come and hear a tale from India about how an elderly woman's family help her outsmart the fierce jungle creatures waiting to eat her when she starts back home.

Get happily befuddled singing along with "I am my own grandpa". Van Egmond will accompany himself on guitar, hammered dulcimer, and limberjack (a wooden puppet that taps out a rhythm on a paddleboard).

Sponsored in part by a grant from the Whately Cultural Council, a local agency which is supported by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency, and the Friends of Whatley Public Library

Bugaboo Revue presented by Anna Sobel of Talking Heads Theatre

Some people think creepy crawlies are just plain gross. But if you look closely, every bug in your garden has a song to sing about the special job it does to help plants grow. Learn more about why it’s important to keep bugs alive and eat and garden organically. Beautiful bug puppets and catchy, interactive songs in a range of styles round out this fun and educational show. Recommended for ages 2-8.

This program is funded by the Whately Cultural Council, a local agency which is supported by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency
