Historic Maps of Whately.

Eleven maps of town, 1795 to 2005, are available on the Whately Historical Society website (http://vhist.com/mcc/towns/whately/whately-maps/). Two maps (Walling, 1858, and Beers, 1871) identify buildings by family and business names, and several include detailed insets of Town Center, East Whately, and West Whately. PDFs may be enlarged and printed. Large print versions of many of these maps are available in Dickinson Library.

Others include Charles Waite’s schematic drawing showing the locations of houses by family name (1880) and Don Sluter’s redrawn (and much more legible) version of the 1830 Benjamin Cooley map, which shows the town’s topography, the layouts and names of streets, and the location of buildings. Links to both are at https://whatelyhistorical.org/whately-history-resources/historic-maps/.
